This is a generalize itinerary. Itinerary may change based on weather or availability.

We'll start off in Quito exploring the towering Pichincha Volcano in the morning before learning about some of Ecuador's first peoples in an ecological and archaeological park. Afterwards, we'll explore Quito's historic winding alleyways and corridors before dining with the best view of the city. Following a good night's rest, we'll explore Quito's most unique reserves where towering agaves dominate the landscapes and red bromelias speckle the grounds. Then it's off to Otavalo where we'll visit sparkling volcanic lakes and learn about some of Ecuador's most iconic birds. We'll spend the next day immersed in Otavalo's culture and history before visiting one its most important sites, the Peguche waterfall. Finally, we'll end our trip exploring the Mojanda reserve and exploring Otavalo's iconic market.
